

Larisey Lecture at Regis College

Mario Botta, Architetto

“Mario Botta. Architect and Memory”

Friday May 28, 2010 at 4:30pm
St. Joseph Chapel, Regis College
100 Wellesley St. West, Toronto

Architecture and memory is an indissoluble couple as the transformations brought about by architecture become parts of the human landscape. The importance of light and the primary geometrical shapes constitute the distinctive marks of arch. Botta's research. His work comprises all building typologies, from the single-family houses to schools, banks, administration buildings, libraries, museums and sacred buildings.

Presented through the benefaction of Mr. Peter Warrian.

Reception sponsored by:
